The Bachelor's Burial.

[From the Rambler.]
 Not a sound was heard, not a joyous note,
 As our friend to the bridal we hurried,
 Not a friend discharged a farewell shot
 For a bachelor about to be married.
 To think that a bachelor, free and light,
 And shy of the girls as we found him,
 Should leave by the altar at dead of night,
 Be caught in the snare that bound him.
 We married him dully at dead of night,
 Our heads from the sad sight turning,
 And we sighed as we stood in the lamp's dim light.
 To think him no more discerning,
 Few and short were the prayers we said.
 As we watched his awful shakes,
 Then escorted him home from the scene of dread,
 And heartily ate of the cake,
 We sighed as we followed his lowly bed
 Of the beach, the bird and the willow,
 How the shovel and pocker would break over his head,
 And the tears he would shed on his pillow.
 Says he, "they'll talk of me after I'm gone,
 And every old maid will upbraid me;
 But little I'll care if they let me alone
 'Neath the coverlet just as they've laid me."
 Slowly and sadly we marched us down
 From the top of that upmost story,
 And we never have seen or heard of the man
 Whom we left (not) alone in his glory.
 PETER O. LEON

A LETTER FROM MR. BOGY.

Reflections in the Senate Chamber at the close of the Centennial Year.

[St. Louis Times.]
 As the year is about expiring and I am detained in my room by bad weather, and the streets of this city are impassable I have concluded to write you a few lines rather of a mediative character. It is a cause of profound regret that the end of the Centennial year of our great republic should be surrounded not only with present pecuniary and political troubles, but that the future should be so gloomy. It is nearly two months since the presidential election, and nearly one month since Congress has been in session, and yet no one can tell who has been elected to the chief magistracy of the country by the sovereign people. While this statement is made very often by everybody, yet is not the fact notorious that Tilden was truly and honestly elected? Is there any doubt about this fully?

TWO-THIRDS OF THE PEOPLE of this country are satisfied of this fact? Yet, while this is so, a few men impelled alone by a spirit of party are able to keep the question in doubt—and, therefore, inflict great pecuniary loss on the business community. Where is the remedy to come from, and who can administer it? As a public man I have tried to do my duty in this emergency, and have trained myself to look hopefully to the source of all power for the remedy; yet, while indulging in this patriotic hope, time moves on, and the idea of March are not far ahead. Great as the pecuniary sacrifices are which are forced on the people of this country, yet, this could be borne, however hard, if at the same time a fatal wound was not inflicted on our political system. Indeed both will go down together in one common and dishonorable grave, and without the Christian's hope of resurrection, if the conspiracy which has been hatched to force on this country as its chief magistrate a man not elected by the people, is permitted by their apathy to be successful. Men of means, and the so-called capitalists of this country need not flatter themselves in the belief that they will escape the catastrophe. It will be like a maelstrom on the black coast of Norway—everything will be engulfed. If it should be a fact that the choice of the people can be defeated by the means now being employed to accomplish this end, the question naturally presents itself, WHERE IS THE END TO BE, and in whose hands will power be hereafter? This ought not to be a difficult question to answer. We have not alone the unbroken voice of history, but common sense to give this answer. It had men triumph, had men will retain and remain in power. And another fact should not be overlooked—that one party will be as great a sufferer as the other.

I have hoped since my arrival here that these plain questions would naturally present themselves to the minds of the people of all parties and of all sections, and that long before this time they would have given expression, in a way not to be misunderstood, of their determination to maintain their constitutional rights. I have hoped that the press, that powerful engine named by Junius the "palladium of liberty," would long since have spoken in one voice, and that so loud as not to be misunderstood, and with a ring so shrill as to reach the plotters in the deep recess where they are now hiding themselves. Hopeful as I have been in the good sense and devotion to constitutional liberty of the great mass of the people of this country, yet I must confess to some disappointments. I have not heard the loud and general expression, either from the people or the press, which I had expected. It is much to be regretted that a large portion of the people, particularly the business portion, and more so in the East than the West, look upon this question in the light of Tilden sustained by the right, but war or trouble on the one side, and Hayes with the triumph of wrong and fraud, but peace on the other. My conviction is the very reverse of this. The inauguration of Mr. Tilden would

and would, in my estimation, lead to immediate and very great prosperity. It would be the beginning of a new era—Louisiana and other States now afflicted with such fearfully bad local governments, would, as if by magic and the move of Aladdin's lamp, be immediately blessed with peace, which would be at once followed by prosperity. The peace and prosperity of the South is the commercial prosperity of the North. With a capacity of production of more than three hundred millions annually, it would afford to the North a market without an equal in the balance of the world. Much might be said on this head, but as I don't wish to make my letter too long, I will leave intelligent readers to supply what I have unsaid. Although a pronounced Tilden man, and a Democrat of the strictest sect, yet, if I know myself, I am not on this question in the least influenced by the party. As I said in the speech I made in the Senate a few days ago, and which was published in your paper of the 27th, party sinks, and I see

THE MAJESTIC PROPORTIONS OF MY COUNTRY.

Can it be possible that the fates have allotted to this grand republic a duration of only one hundred years? I cannot believe it. The good men of our State without distinction of party ought to come together, and in meetings or a convention at St. Louis or Jefferson City, give expression to their convictions. Able and firm resolutions asserting the true constitutional rights of the people should be adopted, and sent to this city to be presented to Congress. In my opinion —in the people, the head and source of all power, and it is to them I look.

HERE LIES THE REMEDY

The joint committee, composed of several members from each house, is in daily session. They hold indeeds in their hands the fate of the country. I am not without hopes of a good result. Without intending to convey the idea that these men could be influenced to do wrong by any expressed public sentiment, nevertheless, it is natural to believe that they might be encouraged to do right, particularly wherein doing so they will meet with serious and determined opposition. The good book tells us that Moses held up his hands upon the mountains when Israel overcame Amalek, and in this way kept their courage. So in this case, let the people hold up their hands, and as of old, the good people will overcome the bad.

The St. Louis Republican, of the 27th ult., publishes a malignant little article about me, taken from the Nation, a paper published in this city. This paper pretends to be independent, but is really a Republican sheet in disguise; and, as I am not willing to be subjected to black mail, I am consequently a subject of abuse. The Republican, to gratify a feeling of personal malice towards me, gives the article all the circulation it can, so as to injure me at home. I care nothing about this, and I only mention it to call the attention of the State to the unworthy motives influencing that paper.

I am, your friend,

LEWIS V. BOGY.

SENATOR CONKLING'S SPEECH.

Showing that he will Rise Above Party in the Present Political Crisis.

[New York Sun, Jan 5th.]
 WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—In presenting the petition of the New York merchants and bankers on the political crisis in the Senate to-day, Mr. Conkling said:
 "I have been requested to present a petition, weighty by reason of the subject to which it relates, and by reason also of the number and character of those who sign it. The petitioners are citizens of New York, distinguished not only for their prominence as members of society, but for the large and varied interests they represent. They are men prominent in each of the great political parties of the country. I observe among the signatories, names which at the recent Presidential election were found on opposing electoral tickets. I observe the names of eminent bankers, merchants, manufacturers, shipowners, scholars, professional men, and other names long and honorably associated with leading enterprises and industries. It would be difficult to select in any State in the Union one hundred and fifty individuals and firms who represent a greater sum of property, intelligence, and character, or who, as petitioners, deserve more consideration. The petition is brief, and I will read it."
 Mr. Conkling then read the petition and continued:

"In laying this petition before the Senate, it may not be amiss to add an avowal of my sympathy with its appeal for orderly, lawful and patriotic action. In executing the Constitution in any instance, and especially in an instance so grave as the one referred to, partisan feeling as a guide and rule of action can rightly have no place. Obedience to law, observance of the Constitution, and the maintenance of truth is not a party question or proceeding; it is beyond party and above party. Parties may contend, and I believe it is wholesome in a free Government that parties should contend, over measures and candidates, but when the contest has been submitted to the ballot-box, the final arbitrament of popular contests known in our system, the only duty, the only lawful proceeding connected with it, which remains is to find the honest and true result, to declare it, bow to it, and stand by it. That is the duty for the hour. It rests on the two Houses of Congress. It rests on the nation. It rests on every citizen of the Republic. That it will be done and done peaceably, decently, and in order, these petitioners do not, I think, disbelieve. They, in common with all men, may derive confidence from the fact that interest and expediency, not less than patriotism and honor, point to one direction and teach one lesson. Whoever stands on the right and truth will not fail. Whoever attempts to stand on wrong and falsehood will be overthrown. I move reference of the petition to the select committee to which it properly belongs."

It was so ordered, the petition being referred to the committee of seven Senators to devise means for a proper count of the electoral vote.

Pleasures of Life.

It is an old comparison—that of pleasure and the will o' the-wisp, but none the less true, for all that. Pleasure does not lie in the future; it is with us, but too often we do not realize its near vicinity, and do not understand that life yields other hopes of happiness than that yielded by making the best of things. The delights of life, like pleasant weather through the year, are scattered all along the way, and unless we enjoy them as they come, the opportunity once past never returns. It is all very well to provide for a rainy day, but that man is very foolish who allows himself to be soaked by drenching rains that he may save his umbrella for some possible future storm. Pleasure taking is not nearly so much provided for among our earnest, intense, energetic American people as it should be. We live altogether too much in the future, too little in the present. We live poor that we may die rich. We get all ready to be happy, and when we are quite ready, infirmity or disease or death step in, and the chance to take comfort in this life is gone. If we only could be content to seize upon the little pleasures that lie just outside and often within our daily pathway, they would make a large sum total at the end of the three-score and ten. For too many of us scorn pleasures that are cheap and near and within our grasp, and complain because we cannot have such as are costly and remote and inaccessible. But if we would magnify the little things that make life pleasant as we do those that make it unpleasant, the cup of our joys would continually overflow.

[Philadelphia Times, Jan. 4.]

Slowly, but surely, all roads leading to the temples of peace and justice for the solution of the Presidential issue. On Tuesday two advanced strides were made in the determined assault of the honest people of all parties upon the frauds of irresponsible return boards. In New York a district that could give a Democratic candidate 1,200 majority in a favorable tide, elected David Dudley Field, an avowed Hayes man, to Congress by 3,449 over a strong regular Republican, who was understood to favor the policy of Grant, Cameron and Morton in deciding a Presidential election; and to-day the ablest of the Hayes Republicans in New York will be in the House to demand that the candidate against whom he voted shall be inaugurated because he was honestly elected. It is an overwhelming expression of the people that there is no party anywhere outside of the few unscrupulous followers of the national administration that wants a President against the decision of the ballot-box. From Florida there comes an avowal that the people will well understand and that the country will respect. In defiance of the falsified results of the Stearns Return Board declaration Hayes and Stearns successful the Republican Supreme Court has unanimously decreed a just computation; and certificate of the vote, just as the Republican Supreme Court of South Carolina did, and instead of bayonets rushing to overturn the law, the pretender, Stearns, has been left to himself, and the entire Tilden State Ticket was peaceably inducted into office without even protest from the Hayes carpet-bag rebellion. A Heroes Governor, State officers and Legislature in both branches, are confessedly the legally and honestly qualified officials of Florida, and the organs of Stearns now tell the truth and declare that the State voted for Tilden. Thus, slowly but surely, is justice asserting its omnipotence, and there will be law and peace in Washington on the 4th of March next.

A pastor out West, was in the habit of bestowing a kiss upon the lips of his female parishioners. He kissed the wife of an editor, who, desirous of equalizing bounties, bestowed a kiss upon the young wife of the aforesaid pastor. The editor went to his home that night a wiser man with about two inches of parasol in his left eye.

Scientific Progress.

Professor Draper, in his admirable survey of American scientific progress in this country during the past hundred years, administers a deserved rebuke to those croakers who complain that we have done nothing, but who "mistake what is merely a blank in their own information for a blank of reality." During a comparatively recent period we have made a coast survey unsurpassed in extent and excellency in the world's history, geological surveys of many of our States and Territories, explorations into the Arctic and Antarctic zones, the Holy Land, the interior of Africa, and parts of South America, have established and maintain a meteorological system not surpassed, probably not equaled in the world, have contributed largely to astronomical science, not only by private discoveries, but also by national expeditions as at the transit of Venus, have put in motion the electric telegraph, and have made contributions in applied science and art which the lecturer found it impossible to epitomize even in an hour's lecture. Notable is the fact that these results have been obtained largely by private enterprise, with less assistance from government and less patronage from a wealthy few than in any European country.

Saying Hateful Things.

What a strange disposition is that which leads people to say hateful things for the mere pleasure of saying them! You are never safe with such persons. When you have done the best to please and are feeling very kindly and pleasant, out will come some underhand stab which you alone can comprehend a sneer which is too well aimed to be misunderstood. It may be at your person, your mental feelings and foolish habits of thought, or some little secret opinion confessed in a moment of genuine confidence. It matters not how sacred it may be to you, he will have his sting at it; and, since the wish is to make you suffer, he is all the happier the nearer he touches your heart. Just half a dozen words only to the pleasure of seeing a cheek flush and an eye lose its brightness; only spoken because he is afraid you are too happy or too conceited. Yet they are worse than so many blows. How many sleepless nights have such mean attacks caused tender-hearted mortals! How, after them, one wakes with aching eyes and head, to remember that speech before everything—that bright, sharp, well-aimed needle of speech, that probed the very center of your soul.

Keep Straight Ahead.

Pay no attention to slanderers and gossip-mongers. Keep straight on in your course and let their backbiting die the death of neglect. What is the use laying awake of nights brooding over the remark of some false friend, that runs through your brain like lightning? What is the use of getting into a worry and fret over gossip that has been set afloat to your disadvantage by some meddlesome busybody, who has more time than character? These things cannot possibly injure you, unless, indeed, you take notice of them, and in combating them give them standing and character. If what is said about you is true, set yourself right; if it is false, let it go for what it will fetch. If a bee sting you, would you go to the hive to destroy it? Would not a thousand come upon you? It is wisdom to say little respecting injuries you have received. We are generally losers in the end if we stop to retaliate all of the backbiting and gossiping we may hear by the way. They are annoying, it is true, but not dangerous, so long as we do not stop to expostulate and scold. Our characters are formed and sustained by ourselves, by our own actions and pursuits, and not by others. Let us always bear in mind that "calumniators may usually be trusted to time and the slow but steady justice of public opinion." And oh! how much evil designers fear public opinion.

A Delusion.

A young man who thinks he can lead a reckless and profligate life until he becomes a middle aged man, and then repent and make a good and steady citizen, is deluded by the devil. He thinks that people are fools, destitute of memory. He concludes that if he repeats everybody will forget that he was a dissipated wretch. This is not the case; people remember your bad deeds and forget your good ones. Besides, it is no easy thing to break up in middle age bad habits that have been formed in youth. When a horse contracts the habit of balking, he generally retains it through life. He will often perform well enough until the wheels get into a deep hole, and then he stops and holds back. Just so it is with the boys who contract bad habits. They will sometimes leave off their bad tricks, and do well enough until they get in to fight place, and then they return to the old habit. Of those boys who contract the bad habit of drunkenness, not one in every hundred dies a sober man. The only way to break up a bad habit is never to contract it. The only way to prevent drunkenness is never to drink.

THE HERALD.

JNO. P. BARRETT, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1877.

Mr. J. N. Banks has assumed editorial control of the Henderson Reporter.

Chas. H. Patterson, deputy Revenue Collector, has located his headquarters at Henderson.

The News says that eggs are worth forty five and fifty cents per dozen in Henderson, and scarce at that.

The joint Democratic caucus of the Illinois Legislature nominated Ex-Governor John M. Palmer, for U. S. Senator, on last Friday.

The aggregate taxable property in the State of Indiana for 1876, amounted to $864,720,440, and the number of polls, 375,887.

Mr. Charles J. Brent, the young clerk who forged a bank check in Louisville last February, and escaped to London, has been brought back to Louisville, and has given bail in the sum of $7,500.

Ex-Governor ISHAM G. HARRIS was elected to the United States Senate, by the Tennessee Legislature, on the 9th inst, for the long term, and W. B. Bate will probably be elected to fill the unexpired term of Andrew Johnson.

Colonel R. M. KELLEY, of the Louisville Commercial, was not removed from the pension agency at Louisville as reported. The nomination of Boring to succeed him has been withdrawn.

The thermometer registered twenty seven degrees below zero at Pewee Valley, in Jefferson county, on the 9th inst. This is as cold as it ever gets hereabouts. It is said to be the coldest ever known in Kentucky. The thermometer here showed sixteen degrees below zero.

T. and R. SLEVIN & CO., old wholesale clothing merchants of Louisville, have bankrupted. They have enjoyed a very enviable reputation for a number of years and their failure was a great surprise.

SEVERAL prominent Republicans of Indiana, took part in the tremendous mass meeting in Indianapolis, on the 8th. Among the number, Hon. D. D. Pratt, late Republican United States Senator and Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The suit of Rev. Stuart Robinson, of Louisville, Kentucky, against the proprietors of the old St. Louis Democrat, for slander, was ended on the 11th inst., by defendants confessing judgment for $30,000. The publication charged the Rev. gentleman with proposing to scatter infected clothing from the plague-infested West Indies, through the Northern cities during the late war, so as to weaken their resources in putting down the rebellion. A Chicago paper gave publicity to the same slander, and each of the journals were sued and the Dr. has been vindicated by the courts in each case.

The Democrats of Kentucky hold a convention in Louisville, to-morrow to express their views on the presidential muddle. They should give no uncertain sound, but speak out plainly, firmly and to the point. It is to be hoped that they will indulge in no unnecessary bragadocio, but earnestly protest against the conspiracy to inaugurate a man who was not elected, and demand in language not to be misunderstood, the inauguration of the choice of the people—Tilden and Hendricks.

Another Fortunate Brother-in-law

A. N. Sharp, brother-in-law of President Grant, has been holding the office of United States Marshal for the district of Columbia for eight years, and is now nominated by the President for paymaster in the army, with the rank of major. Verily Grant takes care of his "kin."

The Farmers' Home Journal.

The proprietors of this excellent agricultural journal have recently purchased the National Granger, and will fill all its contrasts for advertising and will furnish its readers with the Home Journal instead, which is a far better paper in every respect. In fact we regard the Home Journal as the leading paper of its class in the South and West.

Proceedings of the Ohio County Democratic Convention, held at the Courthouse on Monday, January 15, 1877.

Although the day was one of the most inclement ever witnessed, the rain pouring down in torrents, yet a few of the faithful patriots of the county assembled at the ringing of the bell. The audience was called to order by Judge F. P. Morgan, chairman Democratic Ex-Committee, in a few very appropriate remarks.

Hon. W. F. Gregory was elected chairman, and Jno. P. Barrett sec.

The chair appointed S. E. Hill, Dr. B. N. Patterson, Dr. N. J. Rains, C. W. Massie and J. E. Fogle as committee on Resolutions, who retired to make their report during the interim, speeches were made by Judge J. C. Townsend and Judge F. P. Morgan. The remarks were made in an off hand manner, but were firm and pointed. The committee reported the following resolutions, which were adopted unanimously, viz:

Resolved, That we note with alarm a disposition upon the part of the Radical Republican leaders to insist upon the president of the Senate counting the electoral vote in violation of the organic law—no less than former usage and precedent.

Resolved, That the elective franchise is an inalienable right of American citizenship, and whilst it has ever been regarded as a true reflection of public opinion, it has likewise served in our past history as a most potent corrective of public abuse.

Resolved, That in the election recent, by held throughout the United States for President and Vice-President the voice of the American People speaking through the ballot with unmistakable emphasis, declared by the election of Samuel J. Tilden President and Thomas A. Hendricks Vice-President, for a correction of long existing public abuses prominent among which were the subordination of the civil to the military power, the appointment of and continuation in place of dishonest and incompetent men to high positions of official trust, the misappropriation of the public revenues to dishonest and partisan purposes and unwarranted interference by the federal executive with the local affairs of the States; and we demand the inauguration of the candidates of the people's choice.

Resolved, That in our opinion it was decreed in the "economy of Providence" that the reckless and corrupt party managers who have so long misgoverned this fair country of ours should relinquish their official power and we would admonish the conspirators who are now seeking to stifle the voice of our millions of voters by means of fraudulently constructed and still more fraudulently inclined Returning Boards, the "quickeness of conscience of the American people" will manfully and bravely resist any such outrage upon constitutional law, common justice and ordinary decency.

Resolved, That while we entertain an abiding faith that the great mass of the two contending parties will cheerfully acquiesce in any settlement of the Presidential question which may be made fairly within constitutional construction and limitation, and believe that a sentiment of conservatism, in both parties will bring about such settlement, we denounce as enemies to free popular government those Radical leaders who appear to be endeavoring to "count in the defeated Presidential candidate notwithstanding the large popular majority and decisive electoral majority against him, and warn them that as free American citizens, accustomed to the enjoyment of liberty regulated by law, we know our rights and dare maintain them.

Death of an Old and Worthy Citizen. John Pirtle, son of the Rev. John Pirtle, deceased, and brother of the Hon. Judge Pirtle, M. D. of Louisville, Kentucky, was born in Washington county, Kentucky, July the 6th, 1804; was married twice, first to Miss Clarissa B. Roberts, in June 1831. He had seven children by his first wife, four sons and three daughters. One of his sons is now acting as one of the Stewards on the Hartford circuit, and a more honorable and faithful officer the writer never knew.

Brother John Pirtle was married the second time to Mrs. Sallie A. Sablett, August the 26th, 1846; had five children by his last wife, two sons and three daughters, two of them worthy members of our church. The subject of this notice made a profession of religion and joined the M. E. Church, the rise of fifty-three years ago. He departed this life at his residence in Ohio county, Kentucky, September 7th, 1876. He died as he had lived; trusting in Christ.

Our readers will please observe the difference in the quantity of reading matter this week, and what has heretofore been given.

We have added several new subscribers to our books since last issue. This is what braces us up, and we enter upon our duties more vigorously than ever.

We have set our meigs to have two thousand subscribers to the Hartford Herald before next year, and we intend to have them. You may mark us one on this assertion.

The Franklin, Kentucky, Patriot, in its New Year's compliments to its exchanges, speaks thus of the Herald: "One of our best friends. Happy New Year, Barrett!"

The Good Templars of this place had an unusually large meeting last Thursday night, and took some action in the interest of their plays which they now have under way.

Ex-Sheriff, Smith, addresses the citizens of the county in another column. Read what he has to say to those who owe him by taxes, notes, accounts or otherwise.

The amphitheater at the fair grounds gave way under the weight of the heavy snow of last week, which will require the building of a new one before the holding of another fair.

It makes our heart fairly palpitate to stand on the street corners of a Sunday morning and observe the pretty ladies wending their ways to Sabbath School. But then we are willing to let her "pulp."

Rev. James Barnett preached at the Methodist church last Sunday, to a very small congregation, as but few knew of his appointment.

The hens in this section have entirely forgotten the duty assigned them, and eggs are now one of the scarcest articles in demand. Forty cents per dozen is the price offered, and they cannot be procured even at that.

The New Codes of practice for the officers of Ohio County, are now ready for distribution. Those entitled to them can get them by calling on Captain S. K. Cox, at the County Clerk's office.

They were both beautiful little creatures, and were going up Union street. The temptation was too great to resist, so we just observed enough to see they were not striped ones.

Our "devil" says he can stand some things, but when three or four literary young men gather around the same table and begin reading history—of the four Kings—they become one too many for him, and he "passes."

We will publish the list of claims allowed by the court of Claims at its October term, 1876, and January term, 1877, in our next issue. Every tax payer in the county ought to subscribe in time to get this number, as it shows what becomes of our county tax collected.

The case of the commonwealth of Kentucky against D. A. Goodman, for selling lightning rods without license, which was appealed from our Criminal Court, was decided by the Court of Appeals on the 3d instant, in favor of Mr. Goodman. The Court of Appeals affirmed the judgment of his honor, J. Allen Murray.

J. Monroe Jewell of Bartlett's precinct, was brought before his honor, W. F. Gregory, County Judge, last Friday, under a writ issued by W. H. Cummins, Justice of the Peace, charging him with vagrancy. His case was continued until January, 22d.

The marriage of Mr. Alonzo Phelps, and Miss Jennie Franklin was witnessed in the parlor of the Lyon House, in this place last Friday. Rev. W. W. Cook "tied 'em," after which they left for Point Pleasant neighborhood, as happy as could be.

The case of the Commonwealth of Kentucky against the officers of the Fair Company, for permitting gaming, was decided in the Court of Appeals last week, in favor of the officers, the Appellate Court affirming the decision of our Criminal Court.

Believing there are a number of citizens in the county who do not know how long Hartford has been a town, we will tell them. Hartford was incorporated as a town on the 6th day of May, 1816, making the town 61 years old. At that period the country surrounding it was nothing but a dense forest, but which has since undergone the clearing process, and is now the best farming land in the county.

Mr. W. H. Mauzy of our town, has been appointed Deputy United States Marshal, by Mr. W. Oneal, United States Marshal. Mr. Mauzy has gone to Louisville, to be qualified and receive his instructions. He is a worthy, deserving young man, and will no doubt make a good officer. He made as good a town marshal as this town ever had. We congratulate Mr. Mauzy upon his good luck.

We had the pleasure of partaking of an excellent oyster supper last Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lyon, at the Lyon House, (formerly Crow House). Everything was served up in first-class style. In addition to a regular hotel, Mr. Lyon is keeping a first-class restaurant, where meals of any kind can be had at any time on short notice. We thank the popular host and his excellent wife for the elegant entertainment.

In our issue of 27th December, we published an original poem "December," by Madeline. In our last issue, we published another original poem, "Twenty Years To-Night," by Rosine. We failed to make local mention of either at the time, not, however, from any want of appreciation of either, for we certainly admire both. We have heard many compliments passed on each of them. Will not the fair and gentle Madeline, and the graceful and gentlemanly Rosine, favor our readers with other gems from their poetic pens?

The Hartford House has undergone a thorough overhauling, and is now one of the best hotels in the Green river country. Mr. W. T. King is proprietor, and is exactly the right man in the right place. He extends an invitation, in the way of printed bills, to the travelling public generally, to give him a call.

We received intelligence a day or two ago to the effect that three negro women, Ellen Skillern, her sister and daughter, were frozen to death during the cold days of last week. We do not know how truthful the report is, so we give it to our readers for what it is worth.

New Music.

D. P. Faulds, 165 Fourth avenue, Louisville Kentucky, has kindly presented this office with two new pieces of music, "The Dancing of the Stars," a beautiful piece of instrumental music, and the "Song of the Gondolier." The words and music of this are both very pretty. Mr. Faulds is now occupying one of the most handsome business houses in the city. He can supply any and everything in his line. Remember the place 165 Fourth avenue.

HAPPY to be credited, it is nevertheless true, that a sick horse or a badly-conditioned cow can be brought up in a few days by the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator. The powder should be mixed with the food, and they will eat it readily; and it is surprising to see what improvement immediately takes place. It opens the bowels, strengthens them, and does all and even more than the best Condition Powders. A small quantity in the food for chickens will cure cholera, and keep the poultry healthy.

THE GREAT HOUSEHOLD REMEDY.

Even where a physician is dependent on in a case of sickness, it is always well to have at hand a simple and effective remedy adapted to the widest range of diseases. Especially is this true of pains, aches and sudden attacks of acute disease. For these and for a surprising number of malignant and fatal complaints Dr. RANGLER'S SEVEN SEALS OR GOLDEN WONDER never fails when used in time. With this great household remedy you may in fact dispense with the ordinary visits of your physician reserving his attendance for cases of emergency only. The proprietor of this medicine has thousands of certificates attesting its efficacy in diseases of almost every description, acute and chronic.

Almost Frozen to Death.

Monday of last week will long be remembered as the coldest day that has been experienced by our citizens for a number of years, the thermometer registering about sixteen degrees below zero, with the most cutting wind we ever felt to give it still more severity. On the above named day, three citizens of this county, Thomas Baird, Lemuel Craig and a boy about fourteen years old, named Willie Ellis, all of whom reside within a short distance of this place, started to Owensboro with two wagon loads of tobacco. Their wagons were drawn by oxen, which caused them to be on the road the entire day and until after midnight that night. When they reached the city they were found to be frozen, and immediately the most skillful physicians to be found were called to render them medical attention. Since their arrival at home our physicians have visited them, from whom we learn these unfortunates are all in bad conditions. Mr. Craig seems to have fared the worst, as both his feet are very badly frozen, and one may probably have to be amputated. Mr. Baird's injuries are not so severe, yet bad enough. The boy will not fare so badly as Baird or Craig, and no permanent injuries are predicted for him.

The Rival Hotels.

For some time there has been quite a healthy competition between Mr. W. T. King, of the Hartford House, and L. J. Lyon, of the Lyon House. On last Friday, Mr. Lyon was bruising around looking up business, and happened to see a party of young persons coming in who seemed to be matrimonially inclined. So he followed them to the clerks office and finding his surmises to be correct, he invited them down to the Lyon House, threw open the parlor, sent for the preacher, Rev. W. W. Cook, and had a sure-enough wedding in his house. Mr. King heard of it that evening and determined not to be out-done, so he put his wits to work, and with the aid of Dr. Griffin and a few of the good matrons hereabouts, he succeeded in having a Wedding at his house on Saturday (the next day) about one o'clock. It's a boy and weighs seven pounds, and his father, Geo. C., is the proudest man alive.

Lyon was a little non-plused at King's success, but says, never mind, he'll "taste" him on that yet.

All those indebted to me will please call at once and settle, as the old year has closed and a new year is upon us, and I must settle up all the old year's business at once.

Owing to the rise in Rough creek the water mill has ceased grinding, which makes things lively at the steam mill.

Mr. A. L. Morton is recovering from his injuries, and will soon be upon the streets again.

Hoggs Falls Letter.

HOGGS FALLS, Ky., Jan. 15, 1877.
Correspondence Herald:
Hoggs Falls is a quiet little village, small, though not destitute of enterprise. Mr. T. M. Ross is our leading merchant, and keeps on hand a large stock of dry goods and groceries. Mr. J. H. Brown, another one of our worthy citizens, has a first-class steam mill here. Green river has been frozen up for some two or three weeks. A few days ago Mr. E. E. Bishop was on the river bank and saw several young ladies on the opposite bank. Though the ice was thought to be unsafe, the temptation was too great for him to think of fear, so he at once started across to where the lovely creatures were, but he had not gone far before the ice gave way and let the young gallant into the water which cooled his ardent little. He was rescued from a watery grave by his brother who pushed a plank in on which he crawled out. Boys, keep off the ice.

Mrs. L. M. Stalter is spending a few weeks with her father, F. R. Robertson, Esq., her husband having gone to Texas, to look out a location.

We have an excellent school in the vicinity of Mr. W. H. Fulkerson's, under the control of Miss Carrie Gibson, of Hartford, who has made many friends during her short stay. She adds one to the list of our estimable young ladies.

The farmers are doing but little, owing to the cold weather.

We are all waiting in silent suspense, to know the result of the Presidential election.

The matrimonial fever has been raging for some time, and is thought to be contagious, though Joe Ross is not married yet.

A few days ago, a fine mule, belonging to Mr. F. R. Robertson, fell into a well on his farm, which was partly filled with water, but mule like, it was neither killed or drowned and was taken out all right.

Yours muchly, A. J.

HOLBROOK & ROGERS.

January 10th, 1877.

Read This!

All persons indebted to me either by taxes, fees, notes or accounts, are hereby notified to call at the Sheriff's office, in Hartford, and settle at once. My term of office expired the first of January, 1877. Time is money with me. I cannot hire deputies now to attend to old business without they levy upon the property of every one that fails to pay when called upon, and collect the levy. I have heretofore made many levies without collecting for levy. Those desiring to save cost now must pay. I hope you may respond to this call, so that I may be able to meet all demands on me. By so doing you will place me under renewed obligations.

Boys and young men sometimes start out in life with the idea that one's success depends on sharpness and chicanery. They imagine, if a man is able always "to get the best of a bargain," no matter by what deceit and meanness he carries his point, he is on the road to fortune, but his prosperity is a great mistake. Enduring prosperity cannot be founded on cunning dishonesty. The tricky and deceitful man is sure to fall a victim, soon or late, to the influences which are forever working against him. His house is built on the sand, and its foundation will be certain to give way. Young people can not give these truths too much weight. The future of that man is safe who eschews every phase of double-dealing and dishonesty and lays the foundation of his career in the enduring principles of everlasting truth.

The Wabash (Indiana) country has always been celebrated for the persistency and equality of its fever and ague. A local physician thus describes the genuine Wabash article: It comes creeping up a fellow's back like a ton of wet cats; goes crawling through his joints like iron spikes, and is followed by a fever which prohibits the patient from thinking of anything but Greenland's icy mountains. It isn't the "every other-day" kind, but gets up with a man at daylight, and sleeps in the small of his back all night. His teeth feel about six inches long, his joints wobble like a loose wagon wheel, and the shakes are so steady that one can't hold conversation except by putting in dashes.

The Negro Vote.

The New York Tribune says of the negro vote: "That there will be eventually some division to the negro vote to the Democratic ticket in the South seems inevitable, when it is considered that not only the employers of the negro, but most men of wealth and influence, in that section are Democrats, and that the Democratic preponderance in the South is growing every day. Some of the blacks at least, when they discover that they are not to be enslaved or deprived of their votes, will find it in their interest to vote with the dominant class in the community, and probably that day will not be long delayed, if indeed it has not already come."

So in regard to the action of Congress at the opening of the electoral vote. Bold assertions upon the subject are futile. The constitutional provisions, in our judgment, presupposes the finality of the State certificate. But Republicans who with us believe this to be the true interpretation, cannot forget that a Republican Congress took another ground, and authorized the throwing out of the vote of a State. It is true that the exclusion did not affect the result, but that exclusion did affect the principle. If it was constitutional to throw out a State vote in 1872, it cannot be unconstitutional in 1876.—Harper's Weekly.

A few days since it was our chance to meet and hold a brief consultation with Hon. H. D. McHenry, one of the ablest statesmen of Ky. In answer to our interrogatory as to what was his opinion of the present complicated seething of the political cauldron, that distinguished ex-Congressman asserted, as his belief, that the right would ultimately prevail, and that Tilden and Hendricks would be duly installed in the offices to which they had been so fairly and overwhelmingly elected by the sovereign voters of the Union.—Henderson News.

Miss Sedgwick has asserted that "the more intelligent a woman becomes, other things being equal, the more judiciously she will manage her domestic concerns." And we add, the more knowledge a woman possesses of the great principles of moral philosophy and human happiness the more importance she will attach to her station and to the name of a "good housekeeper." It is only those who have been superficially educated or instructed in showy accomplishments, who despise the ordinary duties of life as beneath their notice. Such persons have not sufficient clearness of reason to see that "domestic economy" includes everything which is calculated to make people love home and be happy there.

The Vermont legislature has enacted a law providing that every saloon, restaurant, grocery, cellar, shop, billiard-room, bar-room, and every drinking place or room used as a place of public resort, where intoxicating drink is unlawfully sold or kept for sale, shall be declared a public nuisance.

"When I go a-shopping," said an old lady, "I always asks for what I wants, and if they have it, and it's suitable, and I feels inclined to take it, and it's cheap, and it can't be got at any place for less, I almost always takes it, without chaffering about it all day, as most people do."

"Dye the think the hard times are gone, Sammy?" said one boy to another on Washington avenue, yesterday. The one addressed passed the cuff of his left sleeve thoughtfully over his nose, and then responded reluctantly: "Hard times gone? Not by a darned sight! Dad's broke his leg; mam threatens to run away; sis is got the ague; Bill Snugg's dog licked mine yesterday, and I tore my breeches. Hard times gone! Why, yer darned fool, they's just beginnin'."

Tobacco.

The cold weather for the past few weeks, and the recent heavy snow-storms, have prevented any transactions in this staple in our city. Prices have been on the decline since the opening sales of the season and an average of 2c. per pound for good and large, and 2c. for trash, may be expected to prevail.

A newspaper is a window through which men look out on all that is going on in the world. Without a newspaper a man is shut up in a small room, and knows little or nothing of what is happening outside himself. In our day the newspaper keeps pace with history and records it. It is an unfolding encyclopedia, an unbound book, for ever issuing and never finished. Always bear this in mind and never fail to take and more particularly pay for home a paper.

A country editor offered to make his "devil" a Christmas present of his printing office; but the boy declined it, with the remark that he would rather work for two dollars a week than to run in debt nine hundred dollars a year.—Norristown Herald.

"Of course, I've broken the engagement," he said, in answer to an inquiry about his girl. "I tried to kiss her, she hauled off with the old man's boot and gave me a diff, and I quit."

Do you take The Sunny South?

If not, send for it immediately. It is the universal favorite, and all Southerners are proud of it. Let a large club be raised without delay in this community. It is the only illustrated literary weekly in the South, and the press and people everywhere unite in pronouncing it the equal in every respect of any similar publication in America. The best literary talent of the whole country, North and South, is writing for it, and it has something each week for all classes of readers. Its stories are superior in literary merit, and equal in thrilling interest, to those of any other paper, and its essays upon all subjects are from the best minds of the age.

In addition to thrilling new stories, a series of brilliant articles will soon be out on the CAMPAIGNS AND BATTLES OF THE ARMY OF TENNESSEE, by COLONEL B. W. FROELICH, a distinguished military engineer of that army in all its trying times. These papers will explain all the movements of Generals Johnston Hood and Sherman. Don't miss any of the numbers. They will read like a fascinating romance.

New and exciting stories are beginning every week or two.

State and local agents are being appointed everywhere, but let each community form a club at once and send on for the paper. Having passed successfully through two of the hardest years we shall ever see, it now challenges the admiration and unlimited support of the people. The price is $3 a year, but clubs of four and upwards get it for $2.50. Address J. H. SEALS, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR WE club it with the HARTFORD HERALD, and for $4.00 you can secure your home paper and our great Southern literary journal, both of which everybody in this community should sustain.

THE SUN.

1877. NEW YORK. 1877. The different editions of THE SUN during the year that has just passed. The daily edition on week days is a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages, or 56 broad columns; while the weekly edition will be a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our friends.

THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and reformation, and of the substitution of statesmanship, wisdom, and integrity for yellow pretence, imbecility, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government by frauds in the ballot-box and in the counting of votes, enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers—a body now not far from a million of souls—with the most careful, complete, and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and carefully selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate, and fearless; and it will doubtless continue to denounce and enjoy the hatred of the people against the encroachments of unjustified power.

The price of the daily Sun will be 5c. a month or $2.50 a year, post paid, or with the Sunday edition $7.25 a year.

The Sunday edition alone, eight pages, $1.25 a year, post paid.

The Weekly Sun eight pages, of 56 broad columns, will be furnished during 1877 at the rate of $1. a year post paid.

The benefit of this large reduction from the previous rate for the Weekly Sun can be enjoyed by individual subscribers without the necessity of making up clubs. At the same time, if any of our friends desire to aid in extending our circulation, we shall be grateful to them, and charge at one dollar a year, postage paid, the expenses of paper and printing are barely paid, and, considering the size of the sheet and the quality of its contents, we are confident that the people will consider THE WEEKLY SUN the most important newspaper published in the world and we trust also one of the very best.
